As was announced in these columns yesterday, a trade of John Anderson for George Stovall is pending between Washington and Cleveland, and the deal may be put through to-day before the clubs leave Washington.

Anderson is useless so far as the Nationals are concerned, as he made up his mind never to play here again and has gone so far as to say that he is through with baseball.

Stovall's attack upon Lajoie at Philadelphia was of such a nature that it is doubtful if that player will ever again be a valuable asset to Cleveland.

Both players are too good to go to waste, and a transfer would be a good thing for both men. As they are under suspension, it is a pretty delicate proposition to get them back into good standing; but if both clubs can reach an agreement on the subject of a swap, it is believed that all other matters can be adjusted.

"You can take this from me and make it as strong as you like," said Manager Lajoie last evening, "George Stovall will never play in another game of ball for Cleveland so long as I am manager. That goes."

"Stovall's friends can run around Cleveland till their tongues hang out starting an agitation for a new manager. It all cuts no ice with me. No man can say to me and to me what he did and said and get away with it. I don't want any apology from him and would not accept one were it offered."

Wet grounds caused a postponement of yesterday's game, so the Nationals and Naps will wind up their series this afternoon. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock. Charley Smith and Bernhard will probably be the opposing pitchers.

Immediately after to-day's game the Nationals will leave for St. Louis. They will return to Washington only August 23. While on the road they will play at St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, and Detroit.

Manager Cantillon has obtained another pitcher who has a great record in a bush league in France, a left-hander, who has been pitching for Wausau in the Wisconsin State League. Some time ago Cantillon's attention was called to Francis, and after watching the record of the pitcher for a couple of weeks the local manager decided to get him. The deal was closed yesterday, and Francis has been ordered to join the Nationals at Chicago Friday.

Kay, the outfielder, and Tompkins, the pitcher, who were recently obtained from the Martinsburg (W. Va.) independent team, reported yesterday as per program, and both are likely to get into the game now. Kay has had considerable practice with the club, and Cantillon has had an opportunity to watch him in action. Kay made four hits and four runs in his final game with Martinsburg, and, if size counts for anything, he is certainly ought to make good, for he is several inches over six feet, and tips the beam around 200 pounds.

Cantillon yesterday received a letter from Jack Warner, in which the catcher said his injured finger is still in pretty bad shape, so the veteran will not go West with the club, but will report here on August 23. Eddie Heydon and Jim Block will do the backstopping while the team is on the road.

The latest "con" to reach Washington is that the American League is going to place a team in Brooklyn. Some one dreamed that in East New York. He passed it out among the Brooklyn fans, who believe the Dodgers still have a chance to win the pennant. This is how it was to be done:

Brooklyn has a strong team in the Atlantic League. The Athletics have a couple of exceptionally good players. They have been making money. The story went that Brooklyn was to forget its membership in the Atlantic League; that the Washington Americans were to be taken over and braced up a bit with the crack players of the Atlantic team. Then Brooklyn would have a pennant winner.

"Nothing to it," said Cantillon. "It's a dream. Take this from me and put it in your book: The American League never picks up a dead one. There is nothing to warrant an American League team in Brooklyn. To place a team there the American League would have to violate its agreement with the National League. The leagues are going along smoothly now, and neither cares to stir up any trouble." Thus ended the pipe yarn, but the Brooklyn Athletic League team looks like a winner, something none of the other Gotham nines resemble, so the laugh is not all on one side.

Manager Lajoie has not given up hope of winning the pennant, and thinks, with Bradley back in the game, Cleveland may have a chance.

Bradley has so far recovered that he is able to be out of the house, and may start playing sooner than the 15th of this month. With the old line-up working and the club at home twenty-three games in a row, the Naps should regain some of the ground lost during the recent slump.

While Cleveland is gradually dropping out of the race, the Athletics are closing up on the league leaders, and Mack's team looks more like a pennant possibility. Three weeks ago The Washington Herald pointed out the fact that the Philadelphia team was coming strong, and with all the good pitchers in trim, had a mighty fine chance of making the Sox hurry. At the present time Philadelphia is only a few points from the lead.

The Athletics now have their full strength upon the field. The addition of Jimmy Collins at third and sending Oldring to the outfield seems to have worked quite a change in the team. Babe Waddell seems to possess much of his old-

John McGraw says he is still in the race. Yes, for fourth place, perhaps.

TIME CLOSE TO THE RECORD

In Desperate Race Over the Schuylkill Course Washington Oarsmen Overcome Handicap Easily and in a Driving Finish Capture Banner Event of the Day by a Length.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Philadelphia, Aug. 9.—Under conditions ideal for the contestants, but disheartening to the committee and spectators, the races scheduled for the first day of the thirty-fifth annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen were decided over the national course on the Upper Schuylkill River this afternoon.

Lowering clouds and frequent showers so flattened the surface of the river that it was as smooth as an inland lake. Rain last night had swollen the tributaries of the Schuylkill so that there was a fair current, which gave the competing oarsmen a chance at the records.

In only one instance was a previous record really approached, that being in the intermediate eight-oared shell race, the Potomacs, of Washington, crossing the line in 7:41.5, the old record being 7:29, which was made at Detroit three years ago, on the Detroit River.

Comparatively, the performance of the Washington crew excels the old figures. This event, which, from a rowing standpoint, was a crowning feature of the day's sport, was the final of the afternoon program.

The Potomacs, coached by Pat Dempsey, the only professional sculler who ever coached an American eight-oared crew which won the world's championship, Jim Rice had tutored the Arundels, of Baltimore, while the third competitor, the Fairmount Rowing Association, of this city, was the best product of the club.

Off to Perfect Start.

The regatta was roved over the 1½-mile straightaway course from the Falls Bridge to Rockland. Starter Regan sent the three crews away together, the twenty-four sweeps catching the water as one ear.

Potomacs, who were rowing rather ragged, forced the Arundel crew closer to the west shore, while the Fairmount crew kept his crew well out in the current. The wisdom of this was only too apparent, as, when the three crews reached the shadows of the trolley bridge the nose of the Fairmount shell was in front by half a length. Potomacs was second and Arundel third.

A desperate spurt now ensued. Stroke Brear, of the Washington eight, called for his men to reach out, and when the mile post was reached Potomacs led by a quarter length while Fairmount and Arundel were abreast of each other, neither having any advantage.

A Beautiful Spurt.

At the head of Peter's Island, a quarter mile from the finish, an open space of water on which so many crews have collapsed in the last effort to snatch victory from apparent defeat, the Potomacs gave another breaking spurt. A half length was increased to open water, and the Washington eight crossed the finish line winners in the fastest time of the day, the three men in the waist of the boat having rowed themselves to a complete standstill.

Fairmount had to row to the very limit to beat the Arundels out for the place, only winning by the margin of feet. This was the last heat of this event, and Coach Dempsey has his long list of achievements.
